Cut Teachers, No Hot Lunch At Grass Lake

by GLORIA DAVIS

There were 28 people in the audience at the last regular meeting of the Grass Lake School Board to hear the board approve cuts in the teaching staff, the hot lunch program and some outside activities for the coming school year.

According to Supt. Anthony Przeklasa, a projected $15,000 deficit, without the use of early tax monies, and an additional $48,000 deficit, if the usual monies are not put aside for reserve torte immunity, raises the projected deficit to $63,000.

He added that this was the main reason for the cuts. He would not confirm that another reason was the fact that a citizen advisory board had recommended a float of revenue bonds to get an increase in cash working capital. The float was stopped by a petition filed by 10 percent of the electors of the school district.

The referendum is slated to be on the November ballot but meanwhile the board cannot float the revenue bonds.

Przeklasa, who is in his first year as Grass Lake's superintendent, estimated that the cuts would lower the budget by about 50,000.

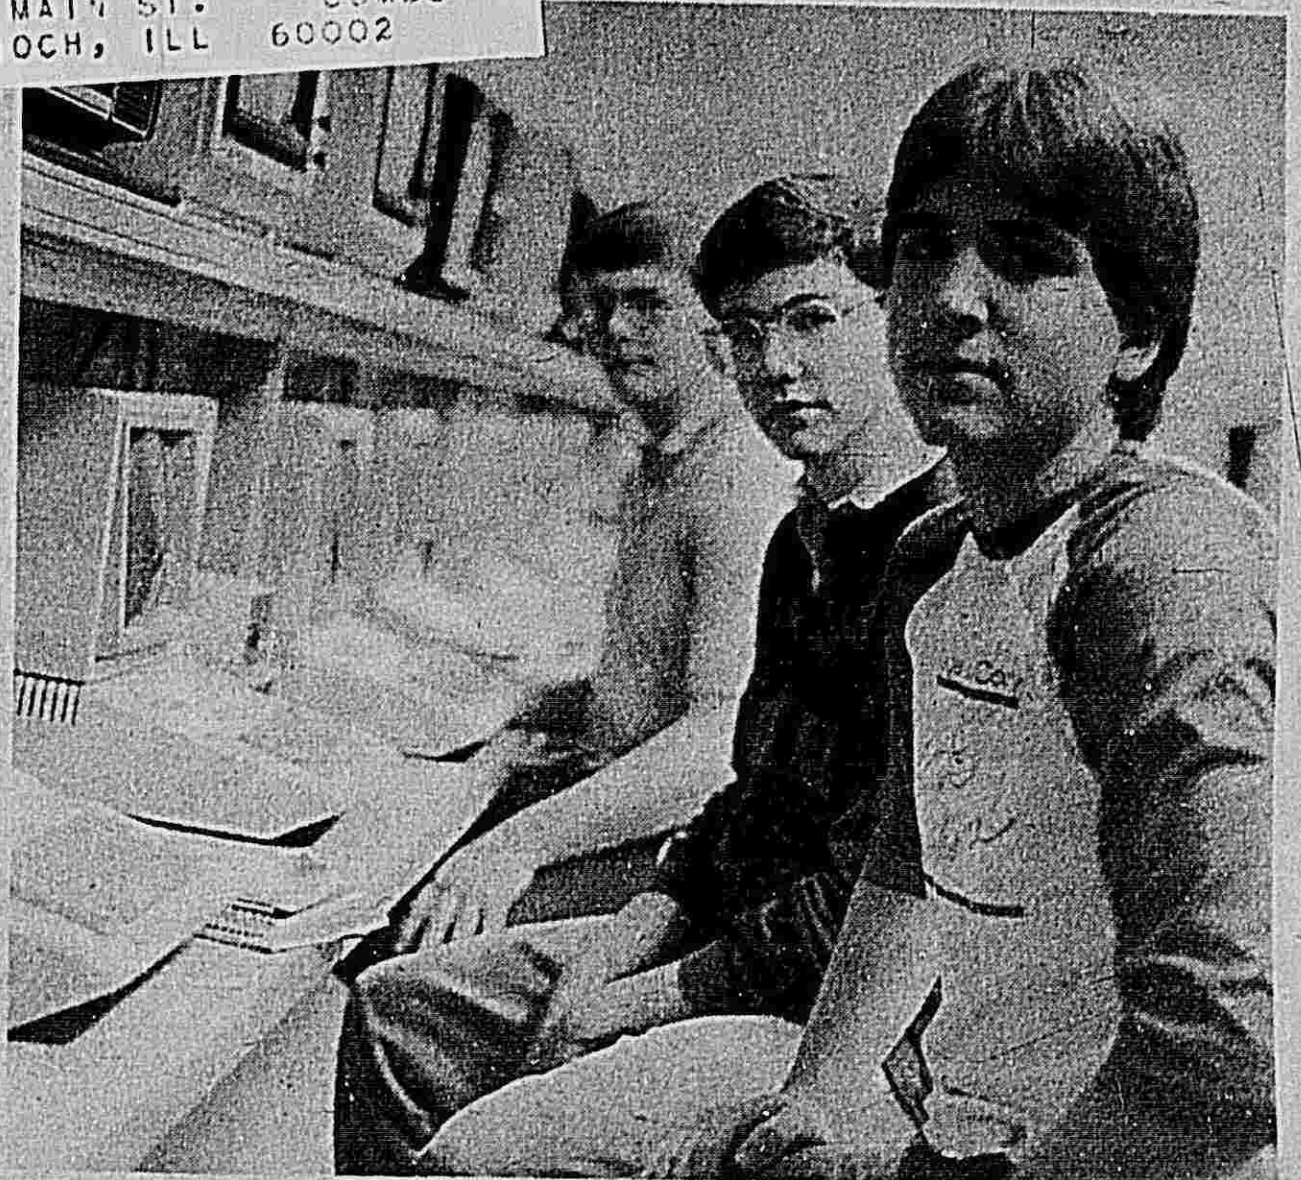

Presently Grass Lake's levy is at the maximum $1.49 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The superintendent also said that the announcement of the cuts came at this time because full-time teachers must be notified of non-renewal of contract 60 days before the end of the school year.

Cut were one full-time junior high social studies teacher, one full-time music teacher, one art teacher (40 percent), one remedial reading teacher (40 percent) and two full-time cooks.

The hot lunch program was completely eliminated and Principal Ray Liss will also be teaching on a part-time basis.

An outside swimming program at the Ravenswood YMCA that involved the entire school going to the "Y" for a "free" swim was also eliminated.

Bears To Be Thrown Into Lions' Den

On Saturday, April 4, some members of the world champion Chicago Bears football team will be thrown to the lions—the Antioch Lions Club, that is.

Actually, the "Good News Bears" traveling basketball team will face members of the Antioch Lions Club, Rescue Squad, Fire Dept. and Antioch Community High School alumni in a game sponsored by the Lions Club.

Potential players for the Good News Bears include Walter Payton, Otis Wilson, Stefan Humphries, Jim Morris, Shaun Gayle, Steve Fuller, Emery Moorehead, Dave Duerson, Jim Osborn, Brian Cabal, Pat Dunsmore, and Mark Bortz.

The arena for this clash of titans will be the ACHS gymnasium, at 7:30 p.m.

After the game, Bears players will be available to sign autographs and have their pictures taken with fans.

Among the prizes that will be given to some lucky winners will be autographed basketballs, footballs and t-shirts.

Popular local radio personality and musician Larry Leafblad will serve as emcee. Entertainment will include the Antioch Lion's famous Lion, and the Antioch High School Prep Band.

Tickets are available at Antioch financial institutions and from members of the Antioch Lions Club. They are $5 for adults and $3 for students and children under 12 years of age.

Fans are urged to get their tickets soon because this is sure to be the hottest game in town.

Help the Lions help the blind.

Many Object To Rezoning

by GLORIA DAVIS

The full house at the Antioch Village Board meeting was able to hear a presentation from the Soo Railroad concerning future commuter services, but that's not what they were there for.

They were there to object to the zoning change that the zoning board and the plan commission have already approved, changing the zoning at Anita St., south of North Ave. from R-4 to R-5.

Trustee Ron Cunningham is the petitioner for the change. He wants to build two- eight flat buildings there. Cunningham would abstain from voting when the proposal reaches the village board level.

Presently there are duplexes in the area and even without the zoning change four-flat buildings could be built there now.

Those in the audience objecting to the zoning change say that they prefer to see only duplexes built in that area, fearing the start of higher density housing.

The board is expected to vote on the positive recommendations from the zoning board and the planning commission at the April 20 board meeting.

Glen Ahrenholz, representing the Soo Railroad, talked to the group about the study that the railroad has done concerning the possibility of future commuter rail service to Chicago from northeast Lake County. The two keys to that possibility, said Ahrenholz, are the ridership numbers and the cost feasibility.

The Soo Line is making the rounds between all the municipalities involved to tell the people just where future commuter service is at and also to get residents input on the service.

White Hen Held-Up At Gun Point

The armed robbery of the White Hen Pantry at the intersection of Rtes. 59 and 173 left the cashier on the floor dazed after being struck in the head by one of two Spanish speaking holdup men wearing ski masks.

According to Lt. Tom Fisher of the Antioch Police Dept., the cashier told the police that the two men came into the convenience store just before 2 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 11, and demanded money at gun point (revolvers). The cashier said she opened the cash register as ordered and then went to the rear of the store as also ordered.

Allegedly, the cashier grabbed the coat of one of the gunmen as she passed him and was then struck in the forehead leaving a bruised lump for which she was treated at Victory Memorial Hospital.

Reportedly she was in Kenosha Memorial Hospital later in the week.

The robbers were described as being five-foot-11 inches and five-foot-nine-inches tall, wearing dark clothes. The cashier said that the tallest of the two was muscular and the other heavy set, one had a sleepy eye and both used Spanish words while speaking with an accent.

An undetermined amount of money was taken in the robbery. The Antioch police are still investigating the incident.

Release Funds

The Illinois Capital Development Board has released $100,000 to the Illinois Dept. of Transportation for improvements and modifications to the McHenry Lock and Dam, according to State Rep. Dick Klemm (R-Crystal Lake).

"The money is part of a $3.2 million project to enhance the dam's structure allowing for easier passage of boats using the Fox River," he said.

April 5-11 Honor Library

National Library Week is April 5-11, and the Antioch Twp. Library will celebrate with a puppet show-Easter egg hunt on April 11 at 1 p.m.

The puppet show will be presented by the Polkadot Puppeteers. Registration is required. Tickets are available at the library. For information, call (312)395-0874.

Western Under Scrutiny

Western Mortgage and Finance, Inc. of Wisconsin, with home offices in Silver Lake, Wis., is still conducting business while the Kenosha County Sheriff's Dept., along with law enforcement agencies from both sides of the Illinois-Wisconsin border, are investigating the company.

The investigation of "every aspect" of Western's business was prompted by the stack of checks from businesses, residents, ex-employees and investors, that were returned because of insufficient funds or closed bank accounts.

Western, which has changed its name three times in the few short months it has been in business just over the Illinois border, claims its main business is finding low interest rates for remortgaging and other real estate deals.

It was Western Mortgage and Finance, Inc. of Wisconsin, Illinois and California when the business opened last fall. Since then, although Western reportedly is conducting business deep into Illinois, both Illinois and California have been dropped from the company's name according to the letterhead of a letter just sent to all residents of Silver Lake by owner Randy Kohlman, charging harassment by village officials, merchants and area banks.

Seminar Prepares Runners

In preparation of the Lake County Marathon, a race sponsored by the Bank of Waukegan to benefit local Special Olympics programs, area Athlete's Foot stores will sponsor a pre-race seminar on healthy running.

The seminar will be conducted at 3 p.m., Saturday, April 25 at the Sheraton North Shore, 933 Skokie Blvd., in Northbrook.

Scheduled to appear at the seminar are Dr. Paul Spangler, holder of more age group records than any other American; Dr. Alex Ratelle, age group record holder and expert on longevity associated with exercise; and Dr. David L. Costill, director of the Human Performance Laboratory at Ball State University.

There will also be mini-workshops on proper taping techniques for feet and massage for injury prevention. Several athletic gear companies will exhibit the latest in spring and summer wear.

The Lake County Marathon course runs along the North Shore from Zion to Ravinia. The race features a 10K race, a half-marathon and a full marathon.

For more information about the pre-race seminar or the race, call Lake County Marathon, (312) 831-9374.

Firefighter Hurt In Grass Fire Battle

As the early summer winds blew across the Antioch area warming the atmosphere, many residents took advantage of the weather and cleaned their yards.

Unfortunately, several people failed to yield earlier warnings from the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Antioch Fire Dept. and lost control of their burning of winter debris.

A total of 25 plus acres was burned due to carelessness of those who did not watch closely enough or who failed to properly prepare for a "controlled" burn.

A total of nine calls were answered by volunteers of the Antioch Fire Dept. for grass or rubbish fires. The most serious fire was on the north and west shores of Deer Lake.

This fire got out of control when those who were attempting to burn off some extra lumber failed to keep track of the wind.

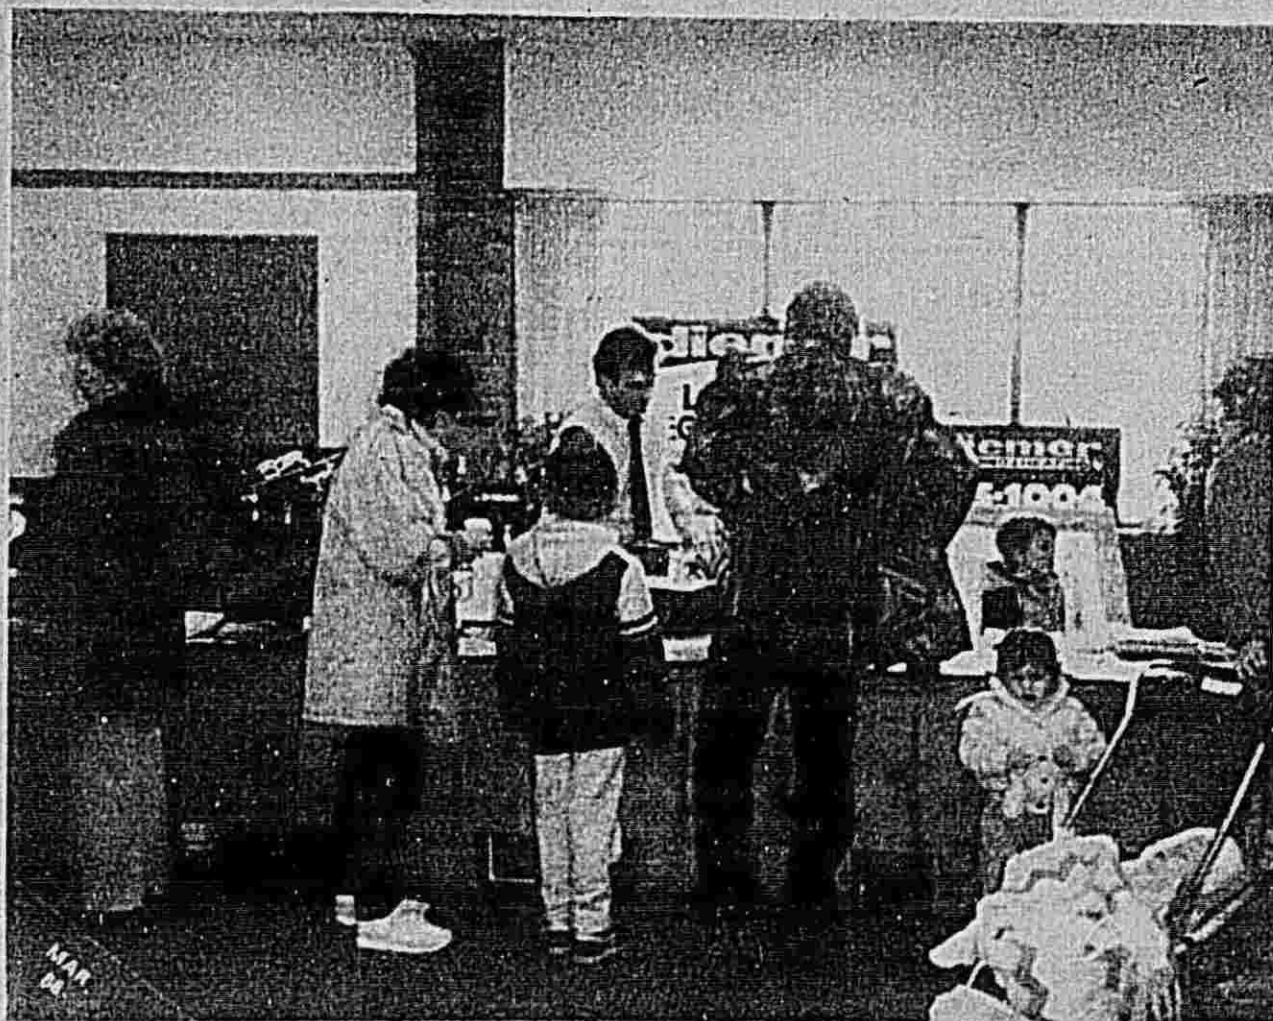

During the process of suppressing this fire,

Firefighter James Bischoff sustained a severely damaged leg muscle and tore several tendons.

The injury occurred when Bischoff stepped into a very deep hole in the weeds. He was removed from the slough by fellow firefighters under the direction of Asst. Chief Volling. He was rushed to Victory Memorial Hospital by the Antioch Rescue Squad.

Chief Tod Maplethorpe wants to remind all residents of Antioch and Antioch Twp. that open burning is still considered to be against local ordinances. He cautions each resident to be extremely cautious when attempting to burn leaves, twigs, winter rubbish or other combustibles.

"It is senseless," comments Chief Maplethorpe, "for a firefighter to be injured fighting a grass fire started by someone who knows they shouldn't. Please use caution, common sense, and if in doubt—don't."

Homes Fair 1986

Crowds that attended last year's home improvement fair sponsored by State Bank of Antioch learned how to improve homes. This year there are more exhibitors at show at VFW Hall.

Home Improvement Fair To Cure Headaches

The State Bank of Antioch upcoming Home Improvement Fair will offer many of the cures for homeowners' headaches listed in a recent survey by the Better Homes and Gardens Consumer Panel.

On Friday, March 20, from 4-8 p.m., and Saturday, March 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., the bank's fifth annual fair will present over 30 local home professionals at the Antioch VFW Hall on North Ave., east of Main St. In the four previous years, the fair was held on bank premises.

According to the panel survey, repairing driveways and replacing windows are at the top of the homeowners' list of problems. Following close behind are porches and decks that need fixing, screens and storm windows that require attention and doors that should be replaced.

Next in line, a majority of homeowners choose kitchen remodeling, spruce-up of bath, basement or master bedroom. Big ticket items such as a new roof, a garage, carport or new siding came further down on the list.

While many homeowners wanted to gain space, remodeling to repair wear or damage was a prime consideration. Other reasons included updating fixtures, increasing the value of the home, home energy efficiency, accommodating a growing family, personalizing a recently purchased home, or simply keeping up with friends.

Homeowners reported use of magazines for remodeling ideas and nearly 20 percent of those surveyed found original ideas with the contractors they used, frequently chosen on the basis of referral by a friend, or recommendation from a lumberyard or other building supply source. Some homeowners planned to take on projects themselves.

Visitors to the State Bank fair will find financing information readily available with reduced consumer loan rates for fair customers. Lending officers will be present to discuss the conditions for interest deductions on loans for home improvement, mortgages or the bank's Equity Classic personal revolving line of credit based on home equity.

Fairgoers may sign up for home improvement cash door prizes and a random drawing for miscellaneous quality tools. No purchase is necessary. Free refreshments will be served.

Bowlers In Tournament

The Antioch Girls bowling team finished a great season in Peoria, posting 16th place finish in the state competition. The beginnings of this fine season started with upset wins over Warren and Fenton in December and continued through the season as the team posted a 6-2 conference record and an 11-3 overall record.

The 6-2 conference record and the third place finish in the conference tournament enabled the Sequoits to finish in third place. Dede Hallwas and Michelle Zinkowich tied for fifth place in the conference tournament.

The highlights of the season continued as Antioch won the sectional bowling tournament held at Antioch Bowling Lanes. The Sequoits were led by Kim Vanderhieden whose scores also enabled her to finish in second place in the individual standings of the tournament.

The members of the varsity squad were: Kim Vanderhieden, Michelle Zinkowich, Tami Glassner, Dede Hallwas, Denise Souder, and Vicki Gradowski. Other bowlers were Jill Kanka, Dawn Blackman, Cissy Hunstock, Pam Marcquenski, Shonda Appelt and Caree Evans.

Although the team is only graduating one senior, the total number of bowlers was down this year compared to previous years, and more bowlers will be needed.

New Way To 'Hold The Line'

Grayslake is making strides in becoming the most tax conscious community in the area. Spurred by Mayor Edwin Schroeder to adopt a tax abatement initiative, representatives of Grayslake's various taxing bodies are getting serious about holding the line on taxes if not being able to enact abatement measures at this time.

To show the way, Mayor Schroeder and village officials have adopted an abatement program for municipal taxes. Representatives of other taxing bodies, while indicating that they are not in a position now to enact cuts, nonetheless are supporting the initiative to reduce taxes and are supporting efforts to maintain a dialog on the general topic of tax reduction.

It is appropriate that Mike Ellis, director of economic development for Grayslake, is the "keystone" of this rather unusual project. Grayslake has been struggling to overcome setbacks in its retail and industrial sectors. Certainly, the demonstration of a tax-conscious officialdom and citizenry will be a strong point in attracting new business and replacement industry.

Intergovernmental cooperation and exchange of information could be one of the most beneficial aspects of the Grayslake approach. Far too often, taxing bodies operate in a vacuum, much to the detriment of individual taxpayers. Grayslake intends to overcome that obstacle. Right now, everyone seems to be headed in the same direction.

Gritty Pool Workers

Leaders of a campaign to construct a public swimming pool for Wauconda Twp. residents should get some kind of award for civic persistency. The drive, launched about 20 years ago, has been an on- and-off thing, but through thick and thin, a hard core of leadership remains, dedicated to achieve construction of a year-round pool facility for family use.

Right now the project, directed by the Wauconda Twp. Pool Foundation, is in a positive cycle with favorable response being indicated to questionnaires sent to 3,400 households. Foundation members, who have accepted the fundraising responsibility, are so enthusiastic that they are talking about a construction timetable. Right on, pool builders!

In reality, progress has been painfully slow. For all the work, the pool workers have raised only $120,000, a tidy sum in itself, but pretty slim considering today's construction costs. One of their problems, besides flagging public support, has been the fact that the longer they wait the more it costs to build the pool.

The pool workers take a backseat to no one. They've got grit. They're not giving up.

3 Voter Groups Emerge To Pick '88 President

by JOHN STEINKE
(Political Columnist)

I hate to be the one to tell you. But we're going to have a presidential election next year. Of course, that means we lose our individuality again. Why? It's because the candidates, their political consultants and their pollsters categorize us into particular voting groups.

In the 1986 midterm elections, there were 178 million Americans of voting age. Voters still can be divided into Democrats, Republicans and independents, but these days almost everyone is really an independent, or at least a potential independent. Only the party activists, the patronage-job holders, and the ideologues--and there are relatively few of them--can be counted on to vote a straight party ticket any more.

This political independence is neither new nor surprising to public opinion experts. Politics does not exist in a vacuum, and politics in 1988 will take place in the context of an increasingly educated and mobile public. There's been a tremendous change in the educational level. Only 13 percent of people today have less than a high school education, down from 40 percent in 1965.

Television provides a personal connection between the politicians and the voters, who no longer need the party label or political organization to tell them about the candidates. In a time when more people have left their neighborhoods, their hometowns and their old jobs or professions, leaving a political party comes naturally.

Presently, political analysts divide voters into three categories. First, there is the older generation. They are a survivalist generation influenced by the Great Depression of the 1930s and World War II (1941-1945). These folks, who are heading for the final glide pattern, vote in significant numbers. They are 50 or older. The protection of their pensions and the maintenance of the social security system are their primary concerns.

Then there are baby boomers, who were born between 1946 and 1964. The baby boomers born in the 20 years after World War II will make up half the electorate before the 1988 presidential election. They have been influenced by television and affluence. They're beyond survival and into self-actualization. Interest rates are a giant issue with baby boomers, many of whom are buying house and cars. To them, inflation is a big deal.

Commentary

Finally, there is the new youth, who are between 15 and 25 years old. Music videos are the new youth culture. Baby boomers have a shorter attention span than earlier generations, because they were weaned on 30-minute tv shows. Now comes the new youth, watching three-minute rock videos, with an attention span that's even shorter. Their concerns are drugs, high-tech and the specter of nuclear war.

In 1988, it will be important to know how long you can hold somebody's eyeballs and brain when you're trying to win a vote for your presidential candidate. What kind of a voter are you?

Spring's Here, Let's Not Forget Farm Families

by BILL SCHROEDER

It's no coincidence that March 20, the first day of spring, is also observed as National Agriculture Day, a time to focus attention on our nation's No. 1 industry.

Ag statistics are mind boggling. Even as the industry continues to grow and exceeds 20 percent of the U.S. gross national product, the ag economy as a whole is experiencing its worst slump since Great Depression. It's appalling to realize that Illinois farmland, in general, has dropped more than 50 percent from peak values.

John Jackson of the Farm Credit Services of Northeast Illinois called this column's attention to some startling facts: Americans spend only about 15 percent of total after-tax personal income on food, one of the lowest such figures in the world; on the average, we consume annually more than 1,450 pounds of food--that's a lot, even when half the people seem to be on diets.

There's reason to believe that America's food producing machine has become so reliable and efficient that we take it for granted. We seldom think about it, but how would we feel if the shelves at our favorite supermarket were only partially filled on our next shopping trip, or worse, practically bare.

I'm thinking about that now and making a point to salute--and thank--our farm families and food producers. Thanks, folks, you're among our forgotten Americans, and that isn't right.

Letters To The Editor:

Frightening Project

Editor:

I would like to express some of my concerns regarding the proposed Waste Management incinerator and landfill.

I should voice my dissatisfaction with the way this matter has been handled from the beginning. First, the Lake County Board ties an issue as controversial as the approval of a landfill/incinerator, to a multi-million dollar lawsuit settlement. And they did so without benefit of any public hearing. To put that kind of added weight on the decision making process was inexcusable.

Next, we hear that Board Chairman LaBelle accepted a campaign contribution from Waste Management but still intends to cast a vote if needed. (One can only wonder how he'd vote.) Somehow that just doesn't seem right.

However, those reservations pale in comparison to my concerns which revolve around the incinerator itself. The sheer magnitude of the project is only now beginning to sink in. It is absolutely frightening. The thought of having to live in the shadow, so to speak, of that smokestack, is sickening. Waste Management presented a table of estimated particulate emissions which projected five pounds of lead a day emitted, eight pounds of mercury, 42 pounds of sulfuric acid, 540 pounds of sulfur dioxides, and the list goes on. I am assuming these amounts are within the allowable limits set by the EPA. But when it's your house that stuff will be blowing over and settling on, it's just impossible to feel safe.

Evidence that emissions from incinerators may indeed be dangerous is found in an article written by Barry Commoner, head of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems at Queens College, New York. I quote "There are serious technological, health, and financial risks associated with MSW (Municipal Solid Waste) incinerators." Obviously, the health risks are what concern me most and I would like to briefly quote portions of that part of his article, dated January, 1987. "Actual tests of operating incinerators show...in practice all MSW incinerators emit a variety of organic compounds, of which "dioxin" (the common term used to designate the family of 210 polychlorinated dibenzo-p-dioxins and polychlorinated dibenzofurans) is the most hazardous. Incinerators also emit toxic metals. The test data show that, contrary to expectations, incinerator dioxin emissions are not reduced by high furnace temperature or combustion efficiency. Moreover, emissions of toxic metals are increased by high furnace temperature. The test data also show that no control device...is capable of preventing significant dioxin emissions." The author then addresses the health risks associated with dioxin, specifically, increased incidence of cancer and of suppression of the immune system.

Now, I consider myself pretty open-minded but the more I learn about this subject the more convinced I am that this proposal will have a tremendously negative impact on this area. It's just impossible for me to understand why the residents of Libertyville, Mundelein, and Grayslake (depend-ding on which way the wind is blowing) should be forced to bear the burden of this incinerator. I moved to Lake County to have a safe place to raise my child not to have to check the wind direction before letting her outside to play.

I want to ask the County Board members--would you want to live downwind from that incinerator? Do you fully realize to what you could be sentencing the residents of this area? I know we need to address the landfill problem. Incineration may be the solution in the future but the present technology leaves too much to be desired. A solution that poses such a potential threat to so many people is no solution. There must be a better, safer way.

Rebuttal Views

Editor:

Whenever tv newscasters give an editorial, they also give the public a chance for a rebuttal. I would like this printed in your paper as my own personal rebuttal to your "Graduation Endangered" editorial.

In response to the editorial "Graduation Endangered," I offer my own opinions on the subject. First of all, I think it would be worthwhile if the writer of said editorial let the readers know in mentioning Karen's letter and hell raisers in the same sentence/paragraph, he did not mean to imply that she was a hell raiser.

At this point I would like to write an editorial entitled "Students with High Standards Endangered." I think Karen is one in a million. She is a sensible, intelligent, beautiful young adult. She is definitely not a hell raiser. She is also not as "wishy washy" as the agreement she is being asked to sign in order to be part of a ceremony that she has earned through a culmination of 13 years of schooling and 17½ years of decent, respectful behavior.

While the writer has many good points in the editorial, in my opinion there are several unfair comments also. I take exception with (Continued on Page 7)

Board Wars Costly To County's Effectiveness

by CHARLES JOHNSTON
Managing Editor
I WAS DISAPPOINTED that County Board Rep. Norm Geary (R-Dist. 4) led the fight to stop the appointment of Don Weiler as a lobbyist for the county.

Weiler, a resident of Round Lake, has been identified as coming from the Weiler would take good care of those who were in tight with Magna. Those who were not, such as Round Lake Beach, I thought, would get short shrift. So I opposed the naming of Weiler to that position.

But I was wrong, and in my local Round Lake column last year, I said so.

through some red tape in Springfield for the county's public works department.

Geary led the opposition to his appointment, calling it a "blatant political pork-barrel measure." He said the main reason Weiler was considered is because he is a friend of Bob Neal's. He also noted, incorrectly, that "one of the projects he (Weiler) got money for was land in Round Lake which was owned by the mayor (Magna)."

Magna does have an industrial park in Round Lake. Most of it was sold to individual companies years ago. Weiler did get money for the industrial park to put in curbs, but the curbs only went into that part of the park that is owned by others. The curbing stops where Magna's property line begins. I know. I checked.

If Weiler had loafed on his job, if he had accepted his pay while giving little or no return, I would say this is pork barrel. But that is not the case.

When are the factions on the county board going to set aside their personal battles long enough to be effective in getting things done for us? That is the true moral issue.

Politically, Don Weiler and I come from different sides of the fence. But he has performed his job on the local level admirably. If this county is to ever get off dead-center, we have to stop letting qualified people get caught in the cross-fire of political sniping.

PEOPLE IN GURNEE should set aside March 31 as a day of prayer. The Village of Gurnee plans to begin flushing hydrants that day.

Why, you may ask, should such a thing be cause for prayer? Well, Gurnee last planned to flush its hydrants on Sept. 26. That was when the floods came and, over a week, flushed the whole town.

Perhaps the public works department just did too thorough a job. Perhaps God does not want Gurnee to flush its hydrants. Perhaps none of this is connected. A prayer or two couldn't hurt, though.

IN THE LAST few weeks I have heard more and more comments about what an effective legislator Bob Churchill is becoming. He is rising fast in the ranks down in Springfield.

Local leaders note that, more and more, when they need help on an issue, Churchill is a man who can get the job done from them.

John Matijevich has long been recognized, publicly in Democratic circles and privately in Republican circles, as the area's most effective legislator. With Churchill's growing reputation and Adeline Geokaris' leadership in the Senate, Lake County may soon have a troika of legislators who can get a better hearing for Lake County than we have sometimes gotten in the past.

Just Politics

Bob Neal faction of the party. In Round Lake he is perceived as being from the Rudy Magna (Mayor of Round Lake) faction. A couple of years ago, the Westlake Economic Development Commission was formed to aid the Round Lake and Fox Lake areas. Weiler was named executive director of that body. I was concerned that, because of his political affiliations, Weiler has represented all member communities equably and removed himself from the rough and tumble of local politics since being in that position. He has been effective - helping to bring more than a million dollars into the area that I don't believe would have come otherwise.

Weiler was up for a six-month appointment at $860 per month to help cut the opinion about the kids' rights being trampled. I take exception with "we don't buy their argument one iota." First of all, does the writer know all high school seniors personally, or for that matter, all high schoolers? How many has he personally contacted on the subject?

Letters To The Editor:

I too would not like to see a person's eyes put out with a flying graduation cap. Have you known this to actually happen? I graduated 26 years ago—we threw our hats back then. I've been under the impression that now they issue softer graduation caps to seniors to avoid any mishaps. If cap throwing is the worst thing our high school students do in their lifetime, I'd say our country is in pretty safe hands. As to the embarrassment to us parents, Karen will be my third high school graduate and I have yet to experience embarrassment where my children are concerned. Basically, I've been lucky enough to experience only pride.

I wonder if the writer has ever actually been present at feeding time at the zoo or in an insane asylum? I doubt that graduations even come close to that description. Let's see, I've attended about six grade school graduations and so far two high school, and will soon be attending a college graduation. I have definitely felt the ceremonies have been treated with respect by the vast majority of the students. Rather than noticing it to be like feeding time at the zoo or an insane asylum, I've noticed other things. I've noticed tears and hugs, as the students realize they will be going on to another stage in their lives, and usually in different directions of their friends they may have known for as many as 13 years. No, Mr. editorial writer, I do not think most youngsters take graduation lightly.

Why is it that people tend to zero in on the negative aspects of a situation instead of positive ones? I prefer to do the latter. Many people are notorious for doing this, especially where our young adults are concerned.

Now this person can write another editorial entitled "Parent Speaks Out." In this editorial, he can voice his opinions on how easily parents are misled and controlled by their uncontrollable youngsters. Stating how this would not take place in his generation. However, in "my generation" parents also stood behind their youngsters when they felt their youngsters were right and were not being treated fairly.

Will The Cheapest Care Be The Best Medicine?

We met again, my friends and I. This time at a different restaurant to make it more convenient for one of our group. He is a fine physician and always adds to Musings. I think him a great foil for Dr. Synik. As the waitress finished taking our orders I started the ball rolling. "It's nice to have you with us again, Mohr," I said. "It's been some time."

"I couldn't pass this one up," said Mohr. "Your column about HMOs needs some discussion."

Synik was up for this. "I think he treated you HMO types more than fairly. Are you going to tell us that you defend gatekeeping, dragging your feet before you admit people to the hospital, sending them home too early so they are having to be readmitted again?"

"C'mon now," said Yungfren. "I hardly believe Mohr sends them in too late and home too early as the saying goes."

"Thanks for the defense, but I don't need it. I've never done any of those things. My patients are good people. They trust me and I take good care of them. They've had the good seen? Knowing more than their doctors who know their histories and present medical needs? Mohr, you've taken more upon yourself than God or man intended."

"I know we haven't got the money to pay for it and both the public and the doctors are going to have to lower their expectations. We're going to have to modify the way doctors behave. Patients will get less and they'll accept that."

I waved Synik to at least temporary silence. "Wirtuos," I said, "Before our young friends come to blows, let's have the benefit of your sage comment."

"Both sides have merit and we know where they stand. At one of our dinners we agreed that good care is in the eye of the beholder. For one thing, even with the best of intentions, Mohr hasn't got complete control of patient care. He has to follow the rules of the HMO to which he belongs. Sometimes he does give the patient less care. Sometimes he has to drag his feet with the expectation the patient will get well anyway. What scares me is the blithe statement that we give too much care and that some bureaucrat will be making this decision."

Bopal was more thoughtful than usual. "There's a peculiar attitude in Congress. They've committed themselves to pushing HMOs to the limit thinking that they'll make medicine less expensive but there is the haunting feeling that maybe it's opened a Pandora's Box. So one senator sponsored a bill to fine any HMO $2,000 if a cash payment is made to induce a doctor to give less than adequate care. As I understand it, they'll make it strong enough and fine the HMO that amount for each subscriber and maybe the doctor too!"

Synik said, "The Congress, in the last stages of the session, to show how virtuous they are, voted this in, I think with nary a nay vote cast because who could vote against good medical care? What they didn't expect was the HMO's reaction. Spokesmen for the HMOs said this would put them out of business. No one who has been pushing HMOs could bear to have this happen so they were assured that a committee would take six months instead of a year before finalizing and would have witnesses for HMOs and hospitals. It was even stated that there was not even a whisper such as an anecdote that might impugn the good intentions of this group to provide cheaper care."

Yungfren said, "It sounds to me that measure is a dead duck. I wonder if the committee will have witnesses who are just patients and might supply more than an anecdote about poor care?"

Synik again, "Even if they throw this measure out they've missed the boat as usual. You don't have to give a man a bonus as an incentive to modify his behavior; all you have to do is take the money that comes into the HMO and see that he gets less if he doesn't conform and that's done easily enough because there's the bureaucracy built in that gets its raises regularly and makes the doctor's share less. He'll see the light."

Mohr had shown great constraint. "Well old buddies, you'll eventually catch on and when you've lost enough patients you won't continue to tilt at windmills."

MUSINGS:

—We've pondered both sides and are convinced that despite honest disagreement commitment to the patient by all doctors is still here.

—When last I looked, no high member of the administration or the Congress, while committed to HMOs for the public has joined an HMO. This includes Sen. Kennedy and Rep. Waxman, the most vociferent exponents. Wonder why?

—Does it bring out the best in a man forced to join because he'll lose his patients if he doesn't?

—Will the public take the trouble carefully to evaluate what's being offered if it goes shopping? Is the powerful media blitz going to influence medical care just like the choice of toothpaste? If the federal government or a state (Maryland) have started a trend to tell what every doctor charges for every service will the public understand that there is no such thing as a standard treatment for a nosebleed because nosebleeds differ, the skill of the doctor varies, and the patient's health causing the nosebleed affects the outcome. After all, we are not being sold a standard item like a certain make of tv set. It is obvious that the group giving the lowest fee will get the applause that it may not deserve.

—Will the promises of more and more care for less and less money eventually lead to less and less care? With the competition so fierce, is that why one HMO has indicated it is leaving two cities (and 1,900 patients), and another one has had its drug supplier tell its retail outlets not to supply drugs at reduced rates because it allegedly has received no payment since September?

How Wide?

sense to look for an alternative medical system which is cheaper than fee-for-service."

"How would you rate yourself by my scale from one to 10?" I asked. "Now fellows, let's not gang up on Mohr if he wants rebuttal time."

"I'd rate a 10. Good Lord, any other system will eat you out of house and home! We know that we're ahead of the rest of the medical profession in deciding that the public in this country has demanded too much unnecessary care. And the doctors have been irresponsible in giving it to them."

Surprisingly Yungfren became an ally of Synik. "What makes you so Godlike that you can unilaterally decide what's too much care involving patients that you've never even

'Dumb' Scribe Opines How Power Corrupts

by JOHN STEINKE

Who is the dumbest voter in Lake County? Whose brain waves go straight in the voting booth? Whose eyes never blink when he punches out his computerized election ballot? I want my 12 readers to guess his name. His initials are John Steinke. This guy is the dy (the Freeloader) Popp regime from office in April, 1985. Now let's keep the record straight. The Popp administration deserved defeat. Fred Popp was an absentee supervisor whose only concern was cashing his monthly check from the taxpayers.

On the other hand, the TIP ticket didn't mayor of the proposed Liberty Lakes. Trustee Mitch Kitlarz wants to be the next mayor of Lindenhurst. Trustee Suzi Schmidt is planning to run for the county board. Highway Commissioner Jim Semmerling wants to be God.

They are all political novices. None of them ever served in an elective office until 1985. Wouldn't it be wonderful if they fulfilled their present township responsibilities before they sought higher office? These unprincipled opportunists love themselves, and only care about power.

Oh Lord, please forgive me for my political sins. I should have recalled the wisdom of Theodore White and Lane Kirkland. The late Theodore White authored many books on presidential election. He recognized how power corrupts politicians from the courthouse to the White House. White observed, "Power transforms people. (This includes) Some of the sweetest and most decent people I've known. Once they've got the power in their hands, (they) become bastards, transformed in spirit and personality."

Lane Kirkland, the president of the AFL-CIO, realizes that you shouldn't trust public officials. Kirkland comments, "It's a mark of amateurism to fall in love with a politician. They'll break your heart every time." The Lake Villa Twp. officials should walk into the Fox Lake until their hats float. That would improve the quality of township government in western Lake County, and make Wayne Johnson happy.

Steinke On Politics

biggest political dumb-dumb in Lake Villa Twp.

His election stupidity was reaffirmed when he voted for the Township Improvement Party (TIP) two years ago. TIP ousted the Fred-merit victory. The present Lake Villa Twp. government is in utter chaos. Most of the township officials are preoccupied with their own political aspirations. Trustee Ron Geer wants to become the next supervisor or the

Agency Buys Dredge, Pushes Safer Boating In Chain

by CHARLES JOHNSTON
Managing Editor

Governor James Thompson has released $700,000 to the Chain O'Lakes-Fox River Waterway Management Agency for engineering and purchase of a dredge.

According to agency chairman John Soffiatti, final specifications for the dredge were sent to Springfield on March 6 and funds were released on March 9. The dredge should be in place between July 1 and 14. A two-week training period will follow and actual work will begin in August.

"We went to Springfield in December to discuss this project," Soffiatti said, "and with the help of Senators Jack Schaffer (R-Crystal Lake) and Adeline Geokaris (R-Zion) and State Reps. John Matejevich (D-North Chicago), Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa) and Dick Klemm (R-Crystal Lake) we got approval for the dredge."

Soffiatti said that Kudrna and Assoc., the engineering firm, had recommended that the agency buy its own dredge so that it could continue work each year. Frank Kudrna, owner of the firm, is a former director of the Illinois Bureau of Water Resources. His firm did the feasibility study for the North Point Marina in Zion.

For this summer, Ackerman Island in Grass Lake will be used to contain the dredged material. Hearings will be held later in the year for other containment sites. The dredge can be used in up to eight inches of ice, so the agency plans to use it in the river during the winter.

"The Fox River and several large, interconnected lakes in northern Illinois are heavily used for boating and fishing," the governor said. "The dredging will restore recreational boat channels which had become unnavigable and made passage by boaters unsafe in several areas. It also promotes economic development by making the area more attractive to tourists who will bring in new dollars."

The agency has put an emphasis on stricter law enforcement and more of it this summer. It has contracted with the Lake and McHenry County Sheriffs' Depts. to add more patrols on busy weekends and at night. The night speed limit has been reduced to 25 miles per hour. Sheriff's patrol boats will be cracking down on DUI's and the night speed limit.

Boat owners will find it much harder to get around the Chain without a valid sticker this season. The agency has negotiated an agreement with the McHenry Dam and Chain O'Lakes State Park to increase compliance. Boaters will not be allowed to use the public boat ramps in the state park nor go through the locks without a valid sticker.

"We are not going to keep people from boating," Soffiatti said. "There will be people from our office available to sell boat stickers at the park and the locks. So if a boater comes out and doesn't have a sticker, he will still be able to boat that day."

He added that the National Marine Manufacturers' Assn. has donated $5,000 to be used for more law enforcement and has sent letters to local member marinas asking them to donate.

The agency will continue to add lighted directional bouys, this year between Pistakee Lake and the mouth of the Fox River. Last year, there was a problem with vandals stealing and busting the lights on the bouys. Soffiatti said that the manufacturer has provided bouys this year that require a special wrench to remove the light and have a tough, mesh screen to prevent them from being broken.

"Members of many boating organizations have agreed to pay special attention and report the boat number of anyone seen tampering with the bouys this year," Soffiatti said, adding that the boaters love the lighted directional bouys.

Racism Opponents Spawn Something Equally Evil

by GLORIA DAVIS

Most people who admit to and practice any kind of religious belief and/or has a sense of basic morality detests racism of any kind.

Those that have suffered under racial persecution have been loudly waging their battles against this monster and inside of the last 100 years some inroads have admittedly been made.

But the monster is still alive and if not well, plied for a job with a government agency. Since it is a job of substance, applicants were subjected to intensive interviewing which included an oral interview in front of a government-oriented panel.

The panel members, working on a point system, rated every applicant numerically with the most total points possibly attained through the interview and a qualifications' check, 85.

When I Think About It

breathing, in the hearts and attitudes of numerous people.

This is not a column meant to wave a banner for Jesse Jackson and his followers. It is not a column calling tit for tat in urging the declaration of Roberto Clemente's birthday as a national holiday. It is a column deprecating an insidious result of the fight against racism.

Now theoretically there is no such thing as "reverse racism." Unequal treatment of any human being, in any phase of life, for any reason, is simply RACIST treatment.

Therefore, giving someone extraordinary treatment or special consideration, purely because of their race, is a form of racism.

What I'm writing about is not treating minorities the same as majorities are treated, but giving those same minorities special privileges.

This is as racist as any action or credo espoused by our local Exalted Cyclops of the Klu Klux Klan.

It seems that politicians who, believe it or not, have used public minority preferences to gain votes from minority peoples, (would they do that!) gave birth to this new racism wherein the minorities are treated better than the majorities and nowhere does old man equality rear his head!

We've all heard the numerous quips, jibes and jokes concerning the welfare system in this respect.

If great fights have been waged against choosing to hire a white person over a black person simply because he is white, why are those same equal fighters not raising a great outcry against the practice of giving a minority preference over a member of the majority in some job markets?

The worst and most unconstitutional part of this new practice is that it has its birthplace with government agencies, supposedly equality's biggest champions.

A very well qualified friend of mine ap-

This friend was told by the government agency that he had scored a perfect 85 and was ranked at the very top of the list of possible hires.

He was then informed that the remaining 15 points would be divided and added to the applicants' scores with 100 the best possible score.

Part of those remaining 15 points would be given for "race ratio" and the rest of the points would be given for being a veteran. Obviously the person scoring nearest to 100 points would be the person who got the job.

This bit of information seemed to be deliberately written in vague terms to offset any claims of "reverse racism."

In other words, a person who scored 10 points lower than my friend, who was a member of a minority race and a military veteran (nothing whatsoever to do with the job in question) could score higher than my friend.

But "nothing is new under the sun." I remember reading in "Washington Confidential" that during President Franklin Roosevelt's administration (or should we say Eleanor's administration) it was common for federal agencies to refuse to hire an employee that was a member of a minority, no matter how incompetent. (All allegedly in fear of Eleanor's wrath for she was one of our first influential Freedom Riders.)

According to "Confidential," qualified members of a majority were quietly hired to work at night, redoing the work that the unqualified minorities did during regular working hours, ergo the taxpayers were paying two salaries to get one job done.

Hey! Maybe it's time to declare Thomas Jefferson's birthday a national holiday! Remember him - of "ALL men are created equal" fame, even if they are members of the white majority?

P.S. My friend hasn't heard whether or not he got the job!

Red Cross Receives Presidential Proclamation

by MARK BENNO

Many Lakeland area residents, along with President Ronald Reagan, have taken the time to recognize the efforts of the American Red Cross; in fact, President Reagan, through an official proclamation, has designated March as "American Red Cross Month."

purest ideals of the Red Cross movement," he said. "It is the reason the Red Cross was formed more than a century ago, and it remains the truest example of its continuing commitment to service."

Baile said that the second mandated service offered by the Red Cross is aid to members of the military and their families. This includes sen-focus on more than just their mandated services, said Baile. The Red Cross's Community Health Education and Safety Services (CHESS) is an example of their wide-ranging aid programs.

CHESS services include teaching CPR, classes which prepare young people for the challenges of parenthood, nutrition courses, and public education about health threats such as AIDS. "Education on AIDS is very important now," said Baile.

Baile said the Mid-America Chapter of the Red Cross merged with the Blood Center of Northern Illinois to form LifeSource, a blood services program. She said the merger has been to the benefit of both organizations, and has "merged their strengths."

She did say, however, that all the blood at LifeSource is tested before it can be administered to patients. Baile commented that LifeSource uses the most advanced techniques for detecting the AIDS virus in blood.

"Now the risk of getting AIDS through blood transfusions is minimal compared with what it used to be," she said.

Baile said the bulk of the Red Cross services is rounded out by their community volunteer services. She said that these volunteers work with the community, helping out with projects where both parties see fit.

One area which always needs bolstering, said Baile, is volunteer membership in special areas within the Red Cross. Skilled volunteers in such areas as public relations and financial development are far outnumbered, she said, by disaster relief volunteers.

"Without the support services, we can't provide the direct services," said Baile. She said the Red Cross receives about 75 percent of its funds from the United Way, and 25 percent from fundraisers.

Baile said one such fundraiser in the near future includes meeting members of the Chicago Bears football team. Other fundraisers often feature an "Undisaster Day," where a mock disaster is enacted to illustrate to the public how the Red Cross operates in emergencies.

Those with questions about the American Red Cross and its services should call the Mid-America Chapter at (312) 949-1000, located at 535 N. Lake St. in Mundelein.

"The American Red Cross has responded to recent disasters (such as the autumn floods of 1986) swiftly and magnanimously, as it always has," said President Reagan. "Since September, nearly a dozen major disasters—including eight large-scale floods in the Midwest and South—have pressed the American Red Cross into service."

Daphne Baile, district field representative for the Mid-America Chapter of the American Red Cross, said that the Red Cross has two government mandated services. The first is outlined in the following statement by President Reagan.

"Disaster assistance speaks to the deepest and ding emergency messages to soldiers and peace-time programs.

One of the most successful military programs centers around domestic violence. Baile said that incidents of domestic violence occur more frequently within military families, and that the Red Cross counseling program at Great Lakes Naval Base has helped to ease the problem.

The Mid-America Chapter of the Red Cross is the third largest in the country, said Baile, and is staffed by many volunteers, as well as paid employees. Its Lake County location is on Lake St., in downtown Mundelein.

Epilepsy Organizations Seeks Volunteers

Epilepsy Services for Northeastern Illinois (ESNI) is seeking volunteers to contribute two or three hours every few months to provide clerical support for the agency's Community Outreach and Education Program. Volunteers may help on a one-time basis or be placed on a call list. ESNI is a United Way of Lake County agency, located in Highland Park, which provides direct social services for people whose lives are affected by epilepsy and community education on epilepsy. Persons interested in volunteering may call Millie Kitzmiller at (312) 433-8960 or (312) 234-3274.

The school's student fees also saw a small raise. Kindergarten went from $10 to $12; first through fifth grades from $18 to $20 and sixth through eighth, $20 to $22.

Though state aid had been increasing slightly each year, Grass Lake' enrollment is also slightly down.

Przeklasa would not comment on the fact that a few years ago, during the talks of merging Grass Lake and Lotus schools, one of Grass Lake's biggest objections to the merger was the fact hat Grass Lake had no money problems and Lotus did.

This is the first school year since a teachers union was formed at Grass Lake.

Word is that many district parents are upset by the proposed cuts and so are the members of the teachers union and parents.

Davis Wins Tax Award

Donald Davis has been selected as the winner of the 1986 Pi Alpha Alpha Student Manuscript Award. Pi Alpha Alpha is the National Honorary Society for public administration and is sponsored by the American Society for Public Administration. The national award goes to Davis for his paper "Tax Increment Financing."

The award will be presented to Davis on March 30 at the American Society for Public Administration's National Conference in Boston. Sen. Ted Kennedy is the featured speaker at the awards ceremony.

Davis is a graduate of Lincolnland Community College, University of Illinois-

Urbana and Northern Illinois University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Davis of Springfield, and is employed as the community development director for Antioch.

The paper examines the use of tax increment financing in the State of Illinois. A brief case study of Geneva's TIF Dist. and the pros and cons of TIF are provided. The paper discusses two different ways in which the tax increments are calculated, the "parcel" and "aggregate" methods. The problems of tax exempt property, homestead exemptions and accountability are also discussed.

Nation Salutes America's Farmers

Farmers and their families are consumers
And taxpayers as well as best producers

Like everyone else, the American farmer is a consumer and a taxpayer, as well as a producer.

Farmers pay about $4.4 billion in farm real estate taxes annually, and $300 million in personal property taxes.

In 1984, farm operators spent about $139 billion for goods and services to produce crops and livestock. They had available $34.6 billion in personal income from farm sources and $40.0 billion from nonfarm sources to spend for personal taxes, investments, and for the same things that city people buy.

Farmers' 1984 purchases included:
*9.5 billion for farm tractors and other motor vehicles, machinery and equipment. About 150,000 employees are required to produce this farm equipment.
*$13.6 billion for fuel, lubricants and maintenance for machinery and motor vehicles used in the farm business. Farming uses more petroleum than any — about 2 percent of the nation's total. That's more than the annual residential use in all New England States plus Maryland, Kentucky and Washington, D.C.

*6.5 million tons of steel in the form of farm machinery, trucks, cars, fencing and building materials. Farm use of steel accounts for 40,000 jobs in the steel industry.

Like everyone else, farmers feel the pinch of inflation. In the last 10 years, wage rates for farmworkers have gone up 90 percent, tractors and self-propelled machinery cost 166 percent more, taxes are up 63 percent and feeder livestock prices are up 66 percent.

Overall, the average cost of commodities, services, interest, taxes and farm wage rates has climbed 102 percent in the last 10 years. These sharp increases in the average include the much lower rates of inflation experienced in the past few years.

ON AN ACRE OF LAND. . . .

Farmers produce 80 percent more crop

American farmers today produce over 80 percent more crop output on an acre of land than did their fathers. Today, one hour of farm labor produces 16 times as much food and other crops as it did in the 1919-21 period.

One farmworker now supplies enough food and fiber for 79 people. Only 10 years ago, the farmworker was producing enough for 59. Because of the farmer's efficient output, we can enjoy a satisfying quantity and variety of food.

In 1984, for example, Americans consumed an average of 144 pounds (retail weight) of beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton; 68 pounds of chicken and turkey; 58 pounds of fresh fruits; 75 pounds of fresh vegetables; 308 pounds of dairy products and 73 pounds of potatoes.

Farmers produce not only enough for us, but also enough to make large quantities of farm products available for international trade.

We export more farm products than anyone else in the world.

In 1984, production from one-third (111 million acres) of America's cropland went overseas.

Until recently, farm exports had set successive records, reaching a peak of $43.8 billion in fiscal year 1981. Because of lower prices and reduced foreign demand, however, exports in fiscal year 1984 totaled $38 billion and were declining further in 1985.

Even so, farm exports still contributed a net of $19.1 billion to our balance of trade in 1984, which is another way of saying we got over twice as much for our food and fiber exports as we paid out for food and fiber imports.

Agriculture nation's biggest Industry, largest employer

Agriculture is the nation's biggest industry — farm assets totaled $956 billion on December 31, 1984.

Agriculture is also the nation's largest employer. Around 21.0 million people work in some phase of agriculture, from growing food and fiber to selling it at the supermarket.

Farming itself uses 2.7 million workers — as many as the combined work forces of transportation, the steel industry, and the automobile industry. The nation's food and fiber system accounted for 18 percent of total GNP in 1984.

For their money today

Not only have food prices risen comparatively little in the past few years, family income buys considerably more food today partly because agriculture has become much more efficient and partly because consumer incomes have risen faster than food prices. For example, here's what the average U.S. worker could buy with an hour's pay in 1950 and in 1984.

Woodstock Opera House Revives 'South Pacific'

Michael Zegarski, Chrystal Lake, and Michelle Gessert, Elgin, have been chosen to play the leads in "South Pacific," the upbeat South Seas musical now in rehearsal by a cast of 45 under auspices of the Woodstock Musical Theatre Co.

Zegarski will play Emile de Becque, the plantation owner on the island. Gessert is the nurse he falls in love with, Ensign Nellie Forbush.

The play opens at the Woodstock Opera House on Friday, April 3 in a 10th anniversary celebration of the Opera House renovation in 1976 and early 1977.

The Woodstock Musical Theatre Co. presented the first musical following the re-opening, and in a sentimental gesture is repeating that first show, "South Pacific." Several cast members from the original presentation are in this cast, a few in the same roles played 10 years ago.

Most notable is the choice of Shirley Smith to re-appear as Bloody Mary, a powerful role for a popular local actress.

Bob Wildbrandt, Crystal Lake, is a familiar figure on the Opera House stage, and in "South Pacific" he is the professor. Tony Casalino, the dynamic Woodstock High School director of theatre and stage veteran, played the professor 10 years ago, and in this 1987 revival, he's the colorful Luther Billis, sailor.

Other veterans in the show include Sharon Harrison, Kathie Comella, Sue Parks, Jim Meisel, Lou Czarny and Brian Sager, all of Woodstock; Charlene Tiffany, McHenry; Bill Baber, Twin Lakes; and Peter Carroll, Crystal Lake.

Michelle Gessert has performed in several Elgin Community Theatre production, including as an actress in "Annie" last year. She was Maria in "Sound of Music" two years ago. She performed with the Pullman Players at Wauconda as a dancer in "Promises, Promises" in 1986 as Peggy in "Come Blow Your Horn" in 1985.

Zegarski is a bank teller this summer, but will return to the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music this fall to continue voice training.

Michael has appeared in several high school productions. His most recent stage credits include roles in "Hello Dolly," "Babes in Arms," and "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Smith, a stage veteran, co-writes and co-produces luncheon theatre for Andre's Steak House at Richmond. She is currently working on a new spring production, "The Best of Times Is Now." "Bags to Riches" is currently playing. She designs the sets and costumes and handles advertising and programs.

Charles Gessert, Jr., group sales manager for Poplar Creek Music Theatre, is director for "South Pacific." While a senior at the University of Illinois in 1984, he directed a production of "South Pacific" in the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

Cy Taggart, Arlington Heights, is the music director for "South Pacific." He is music teacher at Lake Bluff Junior High School and is founding director of the Mt. Prospect Community Chorus.

"South Pacific" will be presented for 10 shows between April 3 and 18. Information about the show and tickets may be obtained by calling the Woodstock Opera House between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, at (815) 338-5300.

All age groups are welcome to attend. Experience is not necessary; free lessons will be given preceding the dance at 7 p.m., and, when needed, the old-time figures will be walked through before dancing. Costume is not important in barn dancing.

This is the sixth in the current series of old time barn dances presented the last Saturday of each month by the Grayslake Park Dist. Admission is $3 per person. For more information, call Uncle Roy at (312) 223-2081.

A buffet brunch luncheon will be served on Saturday, March 28, from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; tickets, priced at $10, must be purchased in advance by calling (312) 367-1229. Admission to the show is $2.50 in advance (call (312) 680-7448) or $3 at the door.

Lucky Strike?

Lighting three cigarettes with one match is thought to be bad luck because in wartime in the trenches one lit match going around to three men would give the enemy time to spot the light, take aim, and fire, killing the third man.

Outstanding Children's Theater At Genesee

On April 5 and 6, Stage One, The Louisville Children's Theatre will tour to Waukegan to perform its production of the play, "Charlotte's Web." The play was written by Joseph Robinette, based on the modern children's classic by E.B. White.

"Charlotte's Web" is set in the 1950's on a small, mid-western farm. It brings to life the fantasy of barnyard animals who speak to each other and to the one human they trust. In the story, a young pig named Wilbur learns the meaning of love and friendship when he is befriended by Charlotte, a small grey spider who lives in the doorway of his pen. Through her wit and ingenious web construction Charlotte saves Wilbur's life and also makes him a very famous pig. A host of many other colorful animal characters add mischief and fun to this heartwarming tale.

Charlotte, Wilbur and the other animal characters are represented with three dimensional papier-mache figures designed by Connie Furr, Stage One's resident costume designer.

"They're inspired by turn-of-the-century antique tin toys," said Furr, "The actors will give them life and movement by manipulating them from the outside."

The spider's web is a magical creation by Sharon Perlmutter, guest scenic designer. Perlmutter also designed the sculptural set for the play. Both the characters and the set are stylized to suggest a barnyard of rural America in the 1940's and '50's which has very magical qualities.

"Charlotte's Web" is directed by Moses Goldberg, producing director for Stage One. Dr. Goldberg has been nationally and internationally recognized as a leader in children's theater.

One of his published plays, "The Analysis of Mineral No. 4" was performed at the Imagination Celebration at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. in 1980, and received the Charlotte B. Chorpennig Cup for an outstanding contribution to children's literature.

Some of his other published plays are "The Wind In The Willows," "Aladdin," and "The Outlaw Robin Hood."

As the professional resident theatre of the Kentucky Center for the Arts, Stage One performs an exciting and innovative repertoire to over 120,000 children and their families each year. Under the leadership of Goldberg, Stage One has performed at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., is the recipient of the Sara Spencer Award as outstanding children's theatre in the southeast, and receives the recognition and support of the National Endowment for the Arts.

"Charlotte's Web" will be performed April 5 at 3 p.m.; and April 6 at 9:45 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. at the Genesee Theatre, 205 N. Genesee, Waukegan. The price for tickets is $5 and $3. The play is targeted for families with children ages four through 12. Call the Genesee box office, (312) 336-0428 for more information.

Symphony To Fete Winner

Jonathan Tunick, Academy and Emmy Award winner, composer, conductor and arranger, will be the guest conductor for the Lake Forest Symphony's "Best of Broadway Pops Concert," April 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the Highland Park High School auditorium, at 433 Vine St.

The program will feature selections from Jerome Kern's "Showboat," Rodgers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific" and "The Sound of Music," and Stephen Sondheim's "Follies" and "A Little Night Music."

Tunick, who has orchestrated the Stephen Sondheim Broadway hits "Sweeney Todd," "Follies," "A Little Night Music," and "Company," as well as "Chorus Line" and "Promises, Promises," and composed and conducted scores for the motion pictures "Endless Love" and "Fort Apache, the Bronx" brings his diverse talents to the North Shore for this special one-night performance.

Tunick's most recent triumph is the CBS Masterworks recording of "South Pacific," with artists Kiri Te Kanawa, Jose Carreras, Sarah Vaughan and Mandy Patinkin, with the London Symphony Orchestra and the Ambrosian Singers.

The already best-selling album has inspired critical raves. Critic Frank Rich of the New York Times said, "Jonathan Tunick's conducting of the overture and the entr'acte alone is worth the price of the record."

Featured soloists of the evening will be Catherine

Caccavallo, soprano, a frequent LFS soloist who most recently sang in the April production of "Messiah," and Bruce Cain, baritone, whom Robert C. Marsh, Chicago Sun-Times music critic calls "an eloquent soloist."

Tickets for the evening are available through Ticketron, (312) 853-3636, or by calling the symphony office at (312) 295-2135.

Fish & Chunks Low Diet Food

by GLORIA DAVIS

Last week the American Cancer Society held the "Great American Lowfat Pigout" in an effort to get people to work on cutting the fat out of their daily diets.

According to a committee of the National Academy of Sciences the average American's daily calorie intake amounts to 30 percent fat, many hidden fats which are not an efficient energy source. Nutritionists claim that people require only a dietary source of certain polyunsaturated fatty acids found in varying foods of both plant and animal origin. Dietary fat serves as a carrier for fat-soluble vitamins while providing these essential fatty acids.

Here a just a few of the low-fat appetite appeasing recipes released by the cancer society for use, not just one day annually, but all through the year with better health in mind.

BAKED FISH—CUCUMBER SAUCE WITH CONFETTI RICE

1 pound fish fillets (4 ounce servings)
1/2 cup chicken broth
4 cups white wine
1 teaspoon rosemary
4 teaspoons savory
1/2 teaspoon marjoram

Place fillets in eight by eight inch pan. Cover with herb mixture, broth and wine. Bake uncovered in a 350 degree oven for 15 minutes or until fish is no longer glassy and will flake with a fork. Garnish with parsley and paprika and serve at 220 calories per serving.

SAUCE

1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
1/2 large cucumber (peel and seed)
2 teaspoons dill
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Mix ingredients in blender, top fish at 10 calories a tablespoon.

CONFETTI RICE

2 cups cooked white rice
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped red pepper
1/4 cup chicken broth

Steam red and green peppers in two cups chicken broth for two minutes. Add rice and stir. Each cup serving has 68 calories.

PINEAPPLE ICE

1 can pineapple chunks (20 ounces) drained (save juice)
1/2 cup milk

Spread pineapple chunks on baking sheet, leaving space between each chunk. Freeze until chunks are hard. Drop frozen chunks into blender or food processor, add milk and reserved pineapple juice. Process for 20 seconds or until mixture is smooth. Serve immediately or spoon into container, cover lightly and freeze for up to a week. Dessert is 88 calories a cup

Set Talk

On Saturday, April 14 at 3 p.m., Margaret Rennie of Denver will be guest lecturer for the Christian Science Church of Antioch, speaking on "Love Without Harm: Its Spiritual Basis."

The lecture will be held in the Antioch Community High School Commons area. The lecture is free and open to the public. Local church members will provide child care during the lecture.

In the late 1800s, Christian Science lectures were introduced at a time of great public interest in the new denomination which had been founded in Boston in 1879. Newspaper reports regarding adherents' practice of Christian healing were widespread.

The lectures offered the public the opportunity to hear firsthand accounts of what Christian Science teaches, and to learn something about their Christian Science neighbors' beliefs.

Rennie is active in the ministry of Christian healing as a Christian Science practitioner and teacher. A Christian Science practitioner gives his or her full time to the public practice of Christian Science healing through prayer.

According to the lecturer, her hour-long presentation will not be a rehash of the latest psychological theories on human love, nor a recitation of statistics on the subject. She will discuss what Christian Science teaches about genuine, lasting love—love that reflects God's love for man—and how to experience more of this love in one's own life.

Of particular interest to visitors will be Rennie's examples of the healing power of divine love and its effect on family and other relationships as well as the protection prayer brings to good Samaritan acts of love toward both neighbor and stranger.

Concert And Dance To Aid Chain O'Lakes Orchestra

A pops concert and dance will be held Sunday, April 26, to benefit the Chain O'Lakes Cultural Arts Assn.

The pop music concert will be performed by the Chain O'Lakes Orchestra, led by Timothy Montalvo. The Wolff family band, who also are members of the orchestra, will play for the dancing which follows.

The whole program will be held at Maravella's, beginning at 5 p.m. with a cash bar and free hors d'oeuvres. The concert will start at 6 p.m.

Ticket donations are $10 per person. Proceeds will be used for paying the expenses of the orchestra, including purchase of music, concert hall rentals, etc. and costs of art exhibits sponsored by the association. All members of the Chain O'Lakes orchestra volunteer their talents.

For additional information about the 500 tickets, call Karen Nowak, (312) 546-4561, or other members of the association's executive board.

Risque Business

Chrysler Buy Might Be AMC's Boon Or Doom

by GLORIA DAVIS

After a week and a half of cheers and banner waving, following Chrysler Corp.'s announcement of intentions to buy controlling interest in American Motors Corp., officials and residents of southeastern Wisconsin are being faced with the sobering fact that Chrysler might close the AMC factory in Kenosha.

The hallelujah's predicting that Kenosha County will finally have a profit-making auto manufacturer reached a crescendo last week with the possibility of up to 10,000 new jobs being opened in the area forecasting great economy growth both in southeastern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

While AMC and its union leaders in Kenosha were hassling over negotiations, trying to keep Chrysler's subcontract work and get the manufacturing of the Jeep transferred from Toledo, Chrysler was secretly dealing in Europe with Renault for an estimated eight months.

Chrysler is paying over $200 million to Renault for its 46 percent of AMC and another $500 million plus for the rest of the controlling stock, a deal expected to take three months.

League Plans Job Fair

The Lake County Urban League, in conjunction with FER, Jobs For Progress, will sponsor its 16th annual job fair at Waukegan East High School April 3.

The county-wide event will start at 9 a.m. and run through 3 p.m. Personnel representatives from major corporations and small businesses throughout Lake and Cook County will be present. Resumes will be accepted no later than March 20. Interested persons can mail resumes to Lake County Urban League, 122 Madison St. in Waukegan, 60085.

For further information, call (312) 249-3770.

Harmer Wins Award

Air Force Master Sgt. Donald R. Harmer, son of Pearl J. Harmer of Waukegan, has been decorated with the Meritorious Service Medal at Scott Air Force Base.

The Meritorious Service Medal is awarded specifically for outstanding non-combat meritorious achievement or service to the United States.

Harmer is a terminal procedures division chief with the Headquarters Airlift Information Systems Division.

His wife, Nikki, is the daughter of James Borre and Janet Weber-Streicher of Gurnee. He received an associate degree in 1986 from the Community College of the Air Force.

Endangered

There are only 20-30 Mexican grizzly bears left in California's Sierra Madre mountains.

Chrysler's suggestion that the State of Wisconsin continue with plans for the $200 million loan to AMC drew a "No way" for Gov. Tommy Thompson.

Chrysler's main reason for the AMC buyout was the acquisition of AMC's Jeep line to fill a large gaping hole in its truck division.

Industrial experts are now predicting that Chrysler will keep AMC's two plants in Canada open, close the Jeep plant in Toledo, Ohio, and Kenosha's fate is hanging in the balance.

Although the first AMC-made Chrysler Fifth Avenues rolled off of the Kenosha assembly line under Chrysler's two-year contract with AMC, at the same time that Lee Iococca announced the buyout, Chrysler now is not commenting on previous plans for the building of the Omni and Horizon or any other Chrysler models in Kenosha. Because of little doubt that the deal will go through, the severance pay of AMC bigwigs is being discussed at a possible three times their annual salary.

Although everything is on hold until the boards of both automakers sign on the official dotted line, Local 72 officials greeted the news of the buyout happily. But in what some construe as a message to the union if they intend to ask for concessions from the number three automaker, the Fifth Avenues made in Kenosha, that are now arriving at area dealers, have a $300 price raise which Chrysler is attributing to the cost of the move of its manufacture to Kenosha.

If It's Your Last Shot

Make it your best shot with our many IRA options.

This could be your last easy shot at the IRS. April 15, 1987 is the last day you can contribute to your IRA and deduct the full amount from 1986 taxes. After that date, you may no longer be eligible to deduct your full contribution. But that's not the end of IRA. No matter what income bracket you're in, your IRA will continue to earn tax-deferred interest. Selecting the IRA investment that's right for you can help maximize your earnings and save tax dollars in 1987 and beyond.

Take a look at some of the many IRA options available at Skokie Federal:

Fixed-Rate CDs. The terms of our CDs range from 1 to 7 years. All can be opened with as little as $500 and are compounded daily for the highest returns.

INVEST Brokerage Services. A self-directed IRA through INVEST (an independent service of ISFA Corporation, member SIPC, available at Skokie Federal) enables you to design your IRA according to your specific needs and goals. Stocks, bonds and mutual funds are among the many products for you to choose from.

18-Month Variable CD. If you're looking for flexibility and safety, this insured variable CD is a good option. Rates vary according to market conditions and are compounded daily for the highest yields. You can add to this flexible account at any time and in any amounts. Stop in any Skokie Federal office and talk to one of our IRA Specialists. They'll help you determine how to best target your IRA and make what could be your last shot at the IRS, your best shot.

Leafblad Throws Hat Into Ring

by CHARLES JOHNSTON
Managing Editor

Larry Leafblad of rural Grayslake has announced that he will seek the Republican nomination for county board in Dist. 4 next spring. Leafblad and Suzy Schmidt of Lake Villa will run together for the two seats currently held by Jim Fields (R-Antioch) and Fred Popp (R-Lake Villa).

Leafblad, 44, is known throughout the county as a radio personality and popular bandleader. He is the corporate sales manager for Lake County radio station WKRS, which he holds a financial interest in. He began as a printer's devil at Lakeland Newspapers in 1958, later becoming sales manager of the group of local newspapers. He held that position until 1968, when he went to WKRS and radio, a career he has stayed with since.

Leafblad is also known as the leader of the Scotch Lads, a popular local band that has performed in many night spots in the area. He started the band in 1963.

Asked why he was running, Leafblad quipped, "I know where I can get a band for a fundraiser cheap."

Leafblad noted that he was born in Lake County and believes in his home area.

"We can make a difference," he said. "District 4 has gotten the short end of the stick on a lot of things. I believe in where I live, I believe in issues so we're going to take it to the streets and go door to door. My district gets second-class treatment and we can end that."

Leafblad said he thought that his running mate, Suzy Schmidt's switch from the Democratic to the Republican Party to run would make a difference to the political people, but not to the mass of people who cast votes.

Asked how he would respond to people who would say he has no political experience, he said, "In everything I have ever been involved with, I have gotten things done. People know that I am a doer."

John Glover's long, winding road to 'Nutcracker'

By Lynn Hoogenboom

John Glover remembers clearly the moment he realized acting was the only profession for him.

John Glover

"I changed scenery in a play in high school, because I was too shy to audition," he says. "But it was a play in the round, so we had to change the scenes in front of the audience. I got on stage, but instead of just changing the scenery, something kind of took over, and I started doing a little act."

The next year, Glover had the lead. He went on to study drama at Towson State College in Baltimore, worked in summer stock during vacations, and headed for New York right after graduation, where he immediately landed a job in a theater — selling orange drinks.

"I used to do a whole spiel," Glover remembers. "One night, I went out and gave my spiel just as the lights went up, and the spiel got a hand from the audience. I thought, 'Oh, no. The cast is going to kill me.'"

When that show closed, Glover landed a job with the National Repertory Theater — looking up ZIP codes. "It was the year that ZIP codes came into being," he says. "They had a huge mailing list. And my job was to look up people's addresses and find a ZIP code."

But his next job was a genuine acting job — as Huck Finn with a touring company of "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." "We played elementary schools in New Jersey, Connecticut and Long Island," says Glover, "and that was my first acting job in New York. The next year I got a job at a regional theater and sort of started building from there."

Glover, now 42, has been working — more or less — ever since. In the theater, he won a Drama Desk Award for his performance in "The Great God Brown." His recent movies include "White Nights" and "52 Pick-Up." And on TV, he was nominated for an Emmy for his performance as a dying AIDS patient in "An Early Frost."

TV audiences will be able to take another look at him on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, March 22, 23 and 24, in the six-hour miniseries "Nutcracker: Money, Madness and Murder." He plays Richard Behrens, the rather seedy friend of Frances Schreuder (Lee Remick).

"I can't wait to see 'Nutcracker,'" says Glover. "I just think it's going to be so good."

The real Khrystyne Haje is hardly the class wallflower

By Constance Pace

No matter how popular they may have been in high school, most people seem to remember their insecure teenage school years from the viewpoint of a wallflower.

After all, hasn't the wallflower character, usually played by Molly Ringwald, been a stock character in all of John Hughes' teen films, from "Sixteen Candles" to "Pretty in Pink"? Ironically — and tellingly — Ringwald's "wallflower" is an astonishingly beautiful redhead. And Simone Foster, the wallflower in ABC's "Head of the Class," is played by another beautiful redhead, Khrystyne Haje.

Haje, who's 17, is about as far from a wallflower in real life as is humanly possible. Outgoing to the point of exuberance, she says there's no competition among the actors and actresses who play the genius students in Mr. Moore's (Howard Hesseman) class.

"Oh, we have so much fun together!" says Haje. "Every week, the emphasis of the episode swings from one of us to the next."

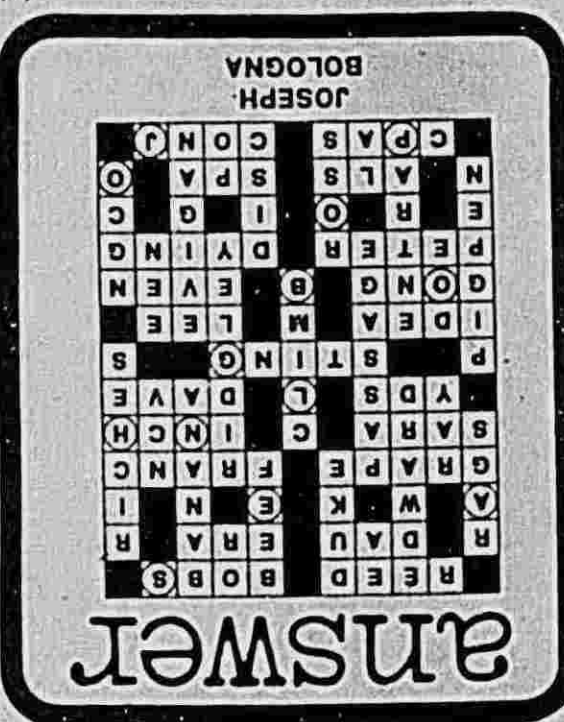

Haje, a California native, got into acting via modeling, which she started after her mother insisted that she study Spanish in high school rather than French. "She thought it would be more useful in Los Angeles," says Haje. "After that, we got into a talk about what I wanted to do with my life, and I said 'model.' She said OK, and a fashion photographer took some shots of me. A French agent saw them and said, 'I must have this girl. She must come to Paris!' I had two weeks there, and then it was on to Italy. I'll never forget it."

Although she enjoyed modeling and acting, she says her first priority is her schoolwork at North Hollywood High School, where she's currently a junior, and active on the speech and debating teams. "I'm in a class called IHP, which stands for Individualized Honors Program. When we first started 'Head of the Class,' our class had no name. I had been talking with the producers, and then all of a sudden I noticed that our class was being called IHP. Isn't that neat?"

When questioned about Molly Ringwald, Haje jokes, "Red hair is so in right now! I had mine long before it became fashionable. Actually, when I was little, I hated it! But I'm glad I stuck it out!"

The BOX SEAT

The case of the clean pants

By Marty Linehan

As Jimmy Durante often claimed, "Everybody wants t' get into da act." That's what golfer Craig Stadler learned the hard way when he played in last month's Andy Williams Open. And all because he didn't want to get his pants dirty.

On the 14th hole of the third round, Stadler's ball landed under the low branches of a pine tree not far from the hole. Since he couldn't take his usual stance because of the branches, he knelt down and knocked the ball on the green with an iron.

But he got in trouble because he knelt on a white towel — placed there to protect his pants from sticky resin that had fallen from the tree. This was a no-no that was overlooked by the officials, and Stadler didn't even realize he had made a mistake when he signed his scorecard.

It wasn't until the next day, when a replay of Stadler's shot was shown on TV, that his mistake was noticed — not by the officials, but by golfers in the TV audience, who notified the network and therefore the tournament officials.

It seems when Stadler placed the towel under under the tree he was breaking a law that says, "A golfer is entitled to place his feet firmly in taking his stance, but he shall not build a stance." Putting the towel there is interpreted as "building a stance" and is subject to a two-stroke penalty.

The rule against building a stance is there to keep a golfer from standing on his golf bags or golf carts to get at a ball that has landed in a tree. Similarly, if his ball lands in an awkward place in a bunker, the golfer isn't allowed to build enough sand to enable him to take a shot.

But that's not really the rub.

The idea that TV viewers — most of whom were raised watching audience-participation shows on the tube — could have an effect on the actual score of a game is too much. And the fact that it didn't happen until the following day is the end.

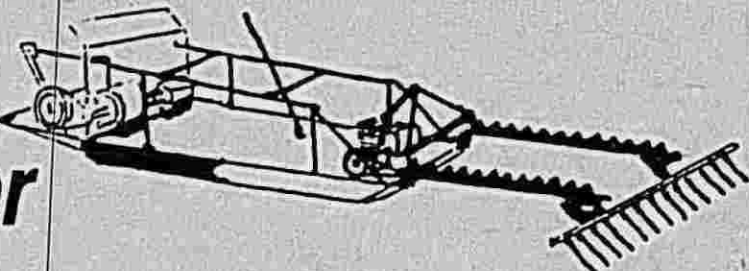

Even the official decision of an instant replay in a professional football game doesn't count if the team gets off the next play before replay action is taken. In this case, a full 24 hours had passed, and still the score was changed.

The official decision cost Stadler $37,333 in second-place money, since he was disqualified for signing an incorrect scorecard the day before. To save a pair of pants — and because Durante knew what he was talking about — the golfer ended up with zilch for four high-quality rounds of golf.

Or, to paraphrase an old Milton Berle song, "Craig, you made the pants too clean."

CLC Nine Shaping Up For New Baseball Season, Mentor

by JOHN PHELPS

Spring is just around the corner and the College of Lake County has already started preparations for the upcoming season.

The team's indoor training began in the gymnasium Dec. 26. Team members practiced three days a week until CLC classes were back in session and now are going strong five days a week.

Head baseball coach Gene Hanson, who was the head coach several years ago, has returned with intentions of getting his team in shape for the season, and has set up a workout program for the Lancers.

A daily indoor practice of a CLC ballplayer includes the following agenda: 12 - 12:45 p.m. practice starts with cardiovascular exercising for enhancing endurance, strength and flexibility; 12:45 - 1 p.m. loosening up; 1 - 2:30 p.m. infield-outfield drills, batting practice, catching drills, pitchers throwing and video analysis.

"I really push hard in practices. I like to see 100 percent given in all of our drills. This pays off in two aspects. For one, the conditioning gets the muscles toned and serves as a preventive procedure. If a player is injured at any time, there is sufficient time for him to recover because of conditioning methods. Second, the conditioning benefits the players in a sense that if they become injured, the injury itself will not be as severe," Hanson said.

Hanson continued, "because I expect 100 percent in practices, I want the guys to be prepared physically and mentally when the game rolls around. They then will be used to pressure situations."

Hanson said the indoor facility at CLC is adequate.

"I think the gym is very adequate. It is big enough that we can have several practice stations set up.

Another big plus in the athletic department is we have the fitness center in the same building so the players can workout on the machines and build up strength," Hanson said.

One more advantage to CLC's facilities is the pitching and ground balls drills can be conducted on the tennis courts, located directly behind the physical education center.

There are two minor disadvantages, one being the lighting and the other concerning lifting and lowering the batting cage. "I wish we had an hydraulic drill to make it easier to lower the cage. As far as the lighting, I turn it to a positive in that the players have to concentrate more on the ball itself," the new coach said.

CLC Athletic Director Frank Minnerly praised Hanson's credentials.

"Gene is Mr. Baseball at CLC. He and the groundcrew did an outstanding job on building the field. He is an outstanding coach and excellent recruiter and a tremendous asset to CLC," Minnerly said.

Regarding facilities, the athletic director said: "I think we have adequate facilities which require minimal, if no refinements. The administration and board are to be acknowledged for their continued support of intercollegiate sports."

Returning CLC slugger Gerrard Guistino said: "I think we have decent facilities with the way the gym is set up. Coach Hanson and his training methods really get us into shape."

"I just want to get everyone into shape and use to pressure situations. In the event of mistakes, I'll simply talk to the player during practice or game individually," Hanson said.

Antioch Third

Antioch's weightlifters finished third among 10 teams at the Skyhawk

Powerweightlifting Invitational held at Johnsburg High School.

In the girls division, Ruth Cancellare won her division while Kris Zimmerman was fourth.

In boys competition, the Sequoias had five second-place finishers in their respective divisions. They were: Don Roszkowski, Kirk Hanson, Rob Johnson, Jeremy Pichter and Dave Wick. Kent Hanson and Chad Modra placed third. Bob Peschke was fourth and Greg Locher fifth.

Weightlifters competed in the dead lift, bench press and squat and earned points. Medals and ribbons were awarded at the conclusion of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes event.

New Trier Outmuscles Carmel At Waukegan East

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Carmel basketball coach Frank Belmont knew going into the Waukegan East sectional game against New Trier that his team would have to play its best game of the season to extend its season.

The Corsairs would have to find a way to rebound the bigger Trevians while at the same time providing enough defensive pressure to keep the game close. Those ingredients weren't present for Carmel at Waukegan and New Trier blasted Carmel out of post-season play 67-51. The loss ended the Corsairs season at 18-10 and marked the first time in three years that Carmel will not be part of the Class AA Sweet Sixteen.

"I thought going in we would have to play the best game of the season to win. We never established anything on offense. I said in the middle of the fourth quarter that that was the first time we had scored on two consecutive trips. It's a fair assessment to say that they took it to us," Belmont said.

Controlling the rebounding for New Trier was the Trevians' frontline of 6' 2" forward Peter Henry who scored 17 points, 6' 4" Mike Ryan and 10 points from 6' 8" center Simon Lincoln.

"Going into the game, we thought rebounding would be the key," Belmont said.

New Trier had sharp-shooting guards from the outside to compliment Henry and Lincoln.

Carmel's Rob Graham led Carmel with 20 points, but the Trevians held the rest of the Corsairs in check. Scott Stahoviak was held to nine points.

Carmel started the game off on a good note as a 16 footer by Graham made it 2-0 at the outset. That was the last lead Carmel would have in the game.

New Trier committed two turnovers its first two times down the court, but quickly settled down. A bucket by Lincoln on a layup made it 3-2 and the Trevians were off and running.

New Trier, dominating the inside game, lead 15-10 after eight minutes and opened the gap in the second quarter. When Lincoln put home an easy five footer with 2:58 left in the half, the Trevians enjoyed a 25-16 lead. New Trier led 32-21 at intermission.

Carmel missed an alley-op try at the outset of the third quarter. And after a John Welling basket cut the lead to 11, Carmel had three shots to try and trim it under 10.

All three missed and when Lincoln scored again, New Trier led 36-23.

From then on, it was all New Trier. The Trevians put on a 14-10 run for a 50-33 lead after three.

Belmont said Carmel's problem was not shot selection.

"They were the same shots that went in 54 percent of the time (during the season)," Belmont said.

Afterwards, the Carmel mentor had high praise for this year's team.

"I'm proud of what this team accomplished," Belmont said.

The Corsairs started the year with only Graham as a player with much playing time off last year's team.

LaBelle Confirms That Board Is Renegotiating

by CHARLES JOHNSTON
Managing Editor

Lake County Board Chairman James LaBelle (R-Zion) confirmed that the Lake County Board is in the process of renegotiating the Heartland settlement. He noted that, with the legal objection of some contiguous property owners, it will require 18 votes on the board floor to approve the zoning. "We don't have 18 votes to approve this," LaBelle said, "so it's either renegotiate or go back to court."

The news came at the tail end of a March 12 press conference in which LaBelle released an opinion by State's Atty. Fred Foreman that the acceptance of a $200 campaign contribution from Waste Management will not preclude LaBelle from voting on the Waste Management landfill application.

LaBelle said he had received contributions from people who are opposed to the landfill and incinerator as well the $200 from Waste Management.

"Unless you can afford to pay for a campaign out of your pocket, I think people understand that you are going to get contributions from people who will later have an interest in an issue that comes up for vote," he said.

The board chairman gave out documents which showed that, 10 years ago, three of his harshest critics, voted to put in a 590-acre landfill on Heartland property. Norm Geary (R-Grayslake), Mike Graham (R-Libertyville) and C. Richard Anderson (R-Barrington) voted, ac-ording to records, in executive session to purchase the land as a recreational area after it had served as a landfill.

The land was off Rte. 45, just west of Arbor Vista. The plan was later dropped.

"These people have cast a vote to put a landfill on Heartland property; I haven't," LaBelle said.

Graham said the record was incorrect. He said he never voted to put a landfill in.

Geary said the vote was for acquisition and was due to a legal doctrine called "inverse condemnation."

"If you vote, as a public body, to buy a parcel of land and it later falls through, you have virtually shut off other bids in between," Geary said. "That is inverse condemnation and can be the basis of a lawsuit."

He also noted that he was the one who made the motion to drop the project.

No one would speak on the record about details of the ongoing renegotiations with Heartland. Sources said, however, that a proposal to have the forest preserve district buy the land is gaining adherents, though developers would like to keep the North Mills section of the property. Most sources maintained that it should be an all or nothing purchase.

Renegotiations may have little effect on the Waste Management landfill proposal. A decision on that will not require a three-quarters vote.

Sentiment is growing that any new landfill should be owned by the county and operated by a professional firm. The concern is that, after the landfill's life is complete, there is little incentive to carefully monitor the site.

While few county board members are openly critical of Waste Management's proposal, many believe that there should be a bidding process and that it should go through the Solid Waste Planning Agency's process, a process that the county has spent years putting together.

While many renegotiation proposals are being floated, nothing is set. What is certain is that nobody knows just yet what will be sited on the sprawling acres of Heartland in central Lake County.

You Can Heat With Refrigeration More Efficiently Than You Can With Gas.

Air conditioning is really a form of refrigeration. It cools by removing heat from your home and blowing it outside.

If you turned a window air conditioner around, and put it in backwards, it would remove heat from the air outside and blow it in.

You'd be heating your home with refrigeration. And that's exactly how a heat pump works.

It Cools In The Summer.

In the summer, a heat pump is essentially a central air conditioner. Except it's probably quite a bit more efficient than your old central unit.

That means a new heat pump will use less electricity and cost less to run than an old air conditioner.

It Warms In The Winter.

In the winter, while an air conditioner just sits outside and shivers, a heat pump reverses itself and starts pumping in warm air to help heat your home.

You don't have to turn it around and install it backwards, either. All you do is flick a switch on your thermostat, and you're heating with refrigeration.

It Saves. And Saves. And Saves.

The benefits are amazing. But true. Because a heat pump works like an air conditioner, it doesn't burn anything to create heat.

It just removes solar heat from the air outside and pumps it into your home. It's one of the most efficient heating devices in the world.

The Best Of Both.

Gas furnaces work most efficiently when the outside temperature is at or below freezing. The rest of the time they waste money. Some waste a lot of money.

But 64% of the time between fall and spring, northern Illinois temperatures are above freezing.

That's when heat pumps are most efficient.

So if you're considering a new central air conditioner, consider adding a heat pump to your gas furnace instead, for the best — the most efficient — of both energy sources.

$250 Rebate.

Just to sweeten the pot a little, Commonwealth Edison is offering a rebate of $100 per ton of cooling capacity for heat pumps installed in new or existing homes.

The average installation is about 2½ tons, or a rebate of $250.

It Lasts. And Lasts. And Lasts.

You can expect your new heat pump to pump along happily, winter and summer, for 15 to 16 years on the average. And 20 years isn't at all unusual.

But good installation is essential to this long, happy life. So we encourage dealers to train and be tested in proper heat pump installation and servicing. We recommend that you select a heating contractor who has successfully completed the Refrigeration Service Engineers' Society testing program.

For more information, call The Heat Pump Hotline at (312) 294-PUMP. Or write to: Heat Pump, Box 767, Chicago, Illinois 60690.

Think Safety First When Choosing New Car Options

by GARY S. MEYERS

Potential buyers of new cars are easily impressed by comfort and space-age gadgetry. However, consumer advocates say then when you choose options for your new car, you should think of ones that will add safety before you order the sun roof and expensive stereo equipment.

Since 1967, the U.S. Dept. of Transportation has issued more than 50 auto safety standards, reports the Center for Auto Safety, a Washington, D.C.-based consumer group. Before buying a particular make and model, find out how it stacks up with these standards by consulting car magazines and books that rate the new models. Many are available in your local library.

Auto expert Jack Gillis, author of "The Car Book," (Harper & Row, $8.95), suggests a number of safety options that new-car buyers should look for.

A day-night mirror is a must, he says, because it allows a driver to reduce the glare from headlights at night.

Steel-belted radial tires are important options. They hold the road better and are blowout resistant. They also provide better fuel economy and have a longer tire life.

Lightweight cars may not need power steering or power brakes, but heavier vehicles are easier to control with these options, so obviously they add to safety.

Some cars come equipped with visual dashboard displays to monitor brake wear, exterior lights, fluid levels and door latches. These provide an extra margin of safety.

Electrical systems that lock all doors at once, including the trunk lid, provide immediate security at the touch of a button when one is driving through a dangerous neighborhood.

There are other basic safety considerations, apart from options. Do the steering wheel and dashboard have padding in areas where your face, knees or chest would hit in an accident? Are doors free from protrusions or sharp edges? Are seat belts easy to use? Is your vision free from obstructions or blind spots when you use the rearview mirror?

After safety considerations, you should choose options that will add convenience to your driving and boost the resale value of your car.

One popular option is disc brakes, which stand up to repeated hard use under big loads, although they are not essential for city driving.

Heavy-duty suspension makes cars ride taut and firm and helps them hold the road better. Beefed-up suspensions are important for car owners who carry heavy loads or who love to drive and are sensitive to the car's performance. There is little initial cost, but also little addition to the resale value.

Cruise control offers an advantage for people who drive long distances regularly. It sets the pace and helps one avoid speeding tickets.

Air conditioning is important both for comfort and the car's subsequent resale value. Few people want a used car without it.

Prehistoric Rites

Prehistoric hunters probably used cave paintings of animals in rites intended to help them successfully hunt the animals.

Shiloh Was 'Baptism Of Fire' During Civil War

Shiloh, Tenn. was the site of the first major battle in the western theater of the Civil War. It was fought mainly by young men who had never tasted combat, who had to "see the elephant," as the saying went. Shiloh would provide a cruel baptism of fire for the soldiers who fought there, and for a divided nation that was only beginning to realize the grim realities of war.

In February, 1862, Union forces under Gen. Ulysses S. Grant penetrated the Confederates' western line of defense with the capture of Forts Henry and Donelson in northern Tennessee. "The way was open," Grant wrote, "to the National forces all over the southwest."

Stung by the ease of the Union victories, Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston abandoned Tennessee and withdrew his Confederate army to Corinth, Miss., an important rail center. There he was joined by forces under General Beauregard, Bragg and Polk, and the army swelled to more than 40,000.

Meanwhile the Union Army moved up the Tennessee River to Pittsburg Landing, south of Savannah. Some 40,000 Union troops occupied "Camp Shiloh," (named for an old log meeting house which stood about two miles from the landing) while Grant bided his time, waiting for the arrival of Gen. Don Carlos Buell's Army of the Ohio. With Buell's 25,000 troops, Grant would have the manpower to overwhelm Johnston's army and bring an early conclusion to the war in the West.

Johnston, however, had other plans. He was determined to launch a surprise attack and destroy Grant's army before Buell could join him. It was a long gamble with very high stakes, but if he could bring it off, he would turn the war upside down.

On April 3 Johnston set his army in motion. Moving untrained forces over muddy roads, it took three days to make the 20-mile march to Shiloh. On the night of April 5, two great armies, (at that time the largest ever assembled in North America) were camped hardly a gunshot apart.

Beauregard and Bragg, convinced that the disorganized march had surely alerted the Federals, were ready to call off the attack. But Johnston stood firm. "I would fight them if they were a million," he exclaimed. "Gentleman, we attack at daylight tomorrow."

As dawn broke on Sunday, April 6, 40,000 Confederate soldiers formed in four parallel lines and moved silently toward the Union camps.

Incredibly, the Federal high command had no idea of the storm that was about to rain down upon them. Grant was enjoying breakfast at Cherry Mansion in Savannah when he heard the low rumble of artillery fire coming from the direction of Pittsburg Landing.

The Confederates swept down on the Union camps "like an alpine avalanche," as Beauregard described it. The amazed Federals put up a brief resistance, then fell back toward the river. By 9 a.m. the Confederates had overrun the outer camps and were reforming for a second push. What followed was one of the most violent encounters of the entire war.

The retreating Union forces regrouped along an old sunken road, a natural line of defense. Supported by seven batteries of artillery, they pounded the Rebel forces charging across an open field. Time and time again the Rebels surged forward, only to be cut to pieces by the deadly crossfire. One Rebel declared it was like being caught in a hornet's nest. The name stuck, and the "Hornet's Nest" became a Civil War legend.

For seven hours the Federals held the position while the fate of the Union army hung in the balance. Finally the Confederates massed 62 cannon and unleashed a deadly bombardment that literally blew the line apart. But the Union stand had bought Grant precious time to form a last line of defense near the river, a final chance to avoid monumental defeat.

General Johnston, meanwhile, took a minie ball in the right knee that severed a main artery. In a matter of minutes he bled to death—the highest ranking officer killed in battle during the entire war. Many historians maintain that when Johnston died, so did the Confederacy's hope for victory.

With Beauregard now in command, the exhausted Rebels made a final push toward the landing in the gathering darkness, but were repulsed. Though driven to the very brink of disaster, Grant's army had survived the day.

During a miserable night in which a tremendous thunderstorm pelted rain down upon the bone-weary soldiers, General Buell's army finally arrived. By morning, the Union ranks had swelled to over 54,000.

On Monday, April 7, the outnumbered Confederates were steadily pushed back over the ground they had gained at such a high cost. By mid-afternoon Beauregard called for a general retreat. The decimated Confederate army limped back into Mississippi. Grant's battle-weary troops did not pursue.

Reports of the carnage at "Bloody Shiloh"—more than 23,000 casualties in two days—sent shockwaves through the North and South. The Confederacy had lost its great chance to regain military balance in the West, but the Yankees now knew the determination of their enemy. Both sides were finally convinced that it would indeed be a long and bloody war.

Irish Plow Through Snowy Day

The day for the "wearin' o' the green" in Waukegan was also the day for the "dum-pin' o' the white." Crowds and participation were down in Waukegan's St. Patrick's Day Parade due to an unseasonable snowstorm.

Still, the horses were trotting with green hooves, 95-year-old grand marshal, Mrs. Frank O' Grady was in high spirits, and Irishmen of all nationalities partied the night away at the IC gymnasium in celebration of the man who chased the snakes from Ireland.

The gym was packed to capacity and the party went on into the wee hours. While the Lake County Irish wouldn't let such a small thing as a spring snow storm ruin their day, all are hoping for a bit less white and a little more green at next year's celebration.

Remember. Only you can prevent forest fires.

Do Homework Before Credit Card Shopping

There's more to the cost of a credit card than interest rates and annual fees. Rising competition among credit card issuers and changes in the tax law have left even seasoned card holders with a bewildering number of interest rates, terms, services and charges to choose from.

The basic considerations still are the best guideposts for choosing a card: What is the card's annual fee? How high is the interest rate? And, how do the other terms and charges meet your needs?

As the effects of banking deregulation spread, more institutions are adding credit cards, a highly profitable enterprise, to their list of services. In addition, the Tax Reform Act of 1986 has made the credit card business more competitive by making the cards themselves less attractive, with its phase-out of tax deductions for consumer interest payments.

In 1987, only 65 percent of the interest paid will be deductible, and in 1988, only 35 percent will be allowed. By 1991, the deduction will be zero.

To make up for a projected loss of business, many banks are lowering the requirements needed to qualify for their cards. Susan Weeks, a vice president of Citicorp Savings in New York, said "Citicorp is trying to tap people who don't have cards," including college students who have taken out student loans, as well as people who don't have an account of any kind at the bank.

Unfortunately, while issuing requirements have dropped, credit card interest rates have gone up even in the face of plummeting interest rates elsewhere. In 1981, the average credit card interest rate was 17.8 percent, according to the Washington, D.C.-based consumer group, Bankcard Holders of America, and the prime rate was 21 percent. Today, the average credit card interest rate is 18.34 percent, according to the Meyers Report monthly survey of the top 25 U.S. bank card issuers, while the prime rate is down to 7.5 percent.

Annual fees at most banks for a standard card are $15 to $25, and fees for the preferred cards run from $20 to $50. The fees are a relatively recent invention. Until five years ago, many banks did not charge them. Now, one must search hard to find a bank that does not charge a fee.

Some bankcard issuers charge a small transaction fee each time the card is used, whether for getting cash or buying goods. Often, these fees are levied in lieu of an annual fee.

Elgie Holstein, a spokesperson for Bankcard Holders of America, said, "Don't be lured by the gimmicks offered by some card issuers. Shop around for the card that meets your needs."

He pointed out that, while interest rates are generally high, they can vary widely on conventional cards, ranging from 22 percent all the way down to 9.5 percent.

If you pay your charges promptly—and therefore don't pay any interest anyway—it may be worthwhile for you to take a card with a higher interest rate, but lower annual fees. On the other hand, if your monthly balances are high, go for the low interest rate.

For example, American Express is offering a new revolving charge card, called the Optima card. The Optima card carries a 13.5 percent interest rate, well below the conventional card average. It is available only to current American Express cardholders for an additional $15 annual fee.

However, if the Optima cardholders have an outstanding balance, you will be charged interest as soon as purchases are recorded on your American Express account, usually five to seven days after purchases are made.

Most cards offer a 25- to 30-day grace period, during which you can pay off the balance on your card without owing an interest charge. If you skip payment, you will be charged the interest retroactively. However, some card issuers, like Highland Federal in Los Angeles, charge interest from the moment a purchase is made—a point to keep in mind when you select a card.

Bankcard Holders of America publishes a quarterly list of issuers offering low-interest credit cards, and another list of those offering no-fee cards. The lists cost $1 and $1.50 respectively, and can be obtained by contacting: Bankcard Holders of America, 33 Pennsylvania Ave. SE, Washington, D.C., 20003, phone (202)543-5805.

The average Visa card holder with an account at Citicorp is eligible for a $1,000 cash advance available through the bank's ATMs.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

Weekly Tip: Spring comes with a bonus.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr 19) Something special waits at the end of what seems to be a long wait. Be more patient. On the home front, look for a change in mate's attitude.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) The key is still patience. While things don't seem to be going as quickly as you like, the fact is they're on a roll. Be ready to act.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) An important message is about to get through in spite of attempts by some people who are trying to keep things bottled up.

Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) You still need to do a little more searching before you can close the books on this relationship. There are loose ends that need to be tied up.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) A warmer greeting from a very special person should give you a more positive feeling. Continue to show the sunnier side of yourself.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Taking things into your own hands should prove more effective once you've determined how much control is needed.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) An increasing responsibility adds to your stature. Continue to accept new tasks. You'll soon have assistance coming while you build your reputation.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Athletics are important to some Scorpions during this period. Others also need some exercise, although not so intense. Children need more attention.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) An individual makes a remark that seems out of place. Instead of reacting negatively, take time to analyze it. You may find more truth in it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keeping secrets about matters of health or other concerns may seem noble at first. But you're really being unfair to those who love you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A warmer reaction stirs some thoughts of making a firmer commitment than you intended. But be careful. Rushing isn't your style.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) An interfering person causes problems that seem to be growing beyond your capacity to stop them. The fact is: You can stop them. Consult a superior.

Our new Easter
Dessert is a hare better than any you've ever tasted.

Here's a magical dessert idea for Easter. Give us your favorite 31 flavors. We'll combine it with a Baskin-Robbins roll cake and pull a bunny-shaped dessert out of our hat.
But order early. Even Baskin-Robbins magic takes time.
